

I subscribe to Satellite Radio. I use my private funds to purchase a private service that provides a large range of choices. I do not see why The National Association of Broadcasters should have any right to dictate what I listen to. This is part of a dangerous trend that is happening in this country. Huge corporate entities, major campaign contributors, are using government regulatory agencies to destroy competition. I see this in insurance, agriculture and other areas. I hope the FCC will deny NAB's petition 04 - 160. Marie Weigold
